JANICE

Tonight we are gathered here together, to reconnect with she whom has been lost to our dearest-

JACK

Hold on. Sorry, but is that really the only food offering we can welcome her with?

JANICE

Jack, Liver and onions is considered a delicacy.

JACK

What? Where?

JANICE

Eastern Europe.

JACK

Eastern Europe. Right.

Jack sees Frank pop a handful of candy corn into his mouth.

JACK

What was that?

FRANK

(Chewing)

What? This?

Frank holds up the bag of festive candy.

JACK

You're offering my girlfriend a burnt slab of liver while your stuffing your face with candy? Give me that.

FRANK

But it's mine.

JANICE

Just, do what he says Frank. It has come to my attention that not everyone enjoys Liver and Onions.

FRANK

Janice.

JACK

Frank! Put the candy on the table,
I'll buy you a new bag!
