

Honest Morality

By: Joe Lipstein

V_03 5/5/14

FRANK

I'm not taking part in your little scams anymore Anton.

ANTON

This isn't little! This is the last hoorah! I can make some serious money on this deal! I need this.
Then I'm out. Done. Finito.

FRANK

Serious money? Listen I'm not staying up all night about it, but you owe me a bit of coin from the last "Deal". I'm not getting involved in these games, Anton.

Anton takes a deep breath and chuckles.

ANTON

I don't have time for your little moral epiphany here. I need a car Frank, and how are you supposed to get payed back if I can't go to this deal? Huh, smart guy?

FRANK

You don't get it do you? I'm tired of you taking the easy way out, Anton. Get a job like the rest of us and jus- just...stop! I mean, first it was the drugs, and believe me I'm happy your done with that.
But now it's these plots. Always plotting and scheming. I'm not letting you do this.